Supply Chain Intern

Do you consider yourself to be Extraordinary Talent?

At Owens Corning, interns are treated exactly like full-time employees—you will take on a great deal of responsibility and do impactful work all while engaging in a dynamic learning experience. Interns work side by side with Owens Corning employees as team members and are expected to continuously elevate their performance and the results of the team as a whole. As an intern at Owens Corning you will be encouraged to find innovative ways to achieve results while constantly striving for improvement.

Program Description: Interns will work on critical Supply Chain projects across the Global Sourcing and Customer Supply Chain organizations and in the various business units. Specific accountabilities for the Supply Chain intern include:

- Acquiring, applying, and distributing cutting-edge technology to optimize and continually improve processes.
- Preparing business cases to gain approval for process changes.
- Defining inputs, outputs, FFU's, & processes for material movement within Owens Corning.
- Developing and implementing Supply Chain strategies and solutions.
- Solving various Supply Chain-related issues, facilitating, leading, and driving Corrective Action Teams to conclusion.

Global Sourcing is responsible for managing spend in excess of $4.4B, all supplier relations, and key Sourcing initiatives such as on-line bidding, electronic data interchange (EDI), and electronic funds transfer (EFT), as well as the development of major partnerships with key suppliers.

The Customer Supply Chain includes Logistics and Materials Management; organizations at the forefront of global integration and leverage distribution, material movement, forecasting, production planning, and inventory management.

This involves leading efforts to reduce costs, provide reliable best-in-class service, increase inventory turns, manage working capital investment in inventory, and develop new forecasting methods. Customer Solutions services approximately $4 billion in sales for Owens Corning's customers and is focused on the order to remittance processes.

Outstanding supply chain internship participants may be offered full-time employment in the Supply Chain Leadership Program (SCLP) at the conclusion of their internship, to commence following graduation. The SCLP is used to recruit and develop supply chain leaders for Owens Corning.

Selection Criteria:

- Cumulative GPA of 3.0 or above
- Previous relevant internships/co-ops in a manufacturing setting
- Demonstrated leadership in professional, service, or social organizations
- Willingness and flexibility to relocate

Education: Candidates must be in their final year of a Bachelors degree in Supply Chain, Logistics, Operations Management, or similar discipline

Internship Benefits:

- Real work experience with challenging and meaningful assignments
- Networking opportunities and exposure to senior leadership
- Formal and informal personal and professional development activities
- Career exploration
- Project-specific training
- Accountability for work
- Competitive compensation
- Opportunity to evaluate the company for full-time employment
